DOWNWARD COURSE

Fast Being Realized By Norway People

A little backache at first. Daily increasing 'till the back is lame and weak.

Primary Disorders may quickly follow. Prosy and often Bright's disease.

This frequently is the downward course of kidney ills.

Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Norway citizen.

Mrs. Mary Gammon, 14 Beal St., says: "I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills on hand for years, in fact, ever since I first took them some years ago. The symptoms I noticed at that time indicated kidney complaint. There was a dull heavy ache across the small of my back and often attacks of dizziness came over me. Doan's Kidney Pills which I got from Frank Kimball's Drug Store, proved fine in relieving me of these troubles. I take Doan's off and on now and couldn't wish for anything better to keep my kidneys in good condition."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gammon had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

How much should I give to make this a better world?

A CERTAIN man in New York filled out his income tax report.

It showed an income so large that his tax was 53%. And his total gifts to church and charity for the year were $148.

Think of it—thousands spent for luxuries and pleasure for himself; and $148 to leave the world a little better than he found it!

Most of us do better than that; but not so very much better.

Our average daily gift for all church causes is

- less than we spend for daily papers
- less than a local telephone call
- less than a third of the day's car fare
- less than 3 cents a day

No wonder that 80% of the ministers of America are paid less than $20 a week. No wonder that the church hospitals turn away thousands of sick people a year. No wonder that China has only one doctor for every 400,000 people. No wonder that every church board and charity society is forever meeting deficits, forever passing the hat.

It isn't because we are selfish; it isn't because we don't want to help. It's just because no one has ever put up a great big program to us, and asked us to think of the work of the church in a systematic businesslike way.

The Interchurch World Movement represents the united program of thirty denominations. They have surveyed their whole task, no business could have done it better.

They have budgeted their needs; no business could have a more scientific budget. They have united to prevent the possibility of waste and duplication. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

And they come to the men or women who love America—to you—this week asking you to use them as the channel through which a certain definite part of your income can be applied to make this a better world.

Only you can determine what part of your income that should be.

It's a good time right now to answer that question. We're passing through the world just once; how much better will the world be because you passed through?

Talbot Mundy
The Stroller of the Express says:—Talbot Mundy, the author whose adventure stories have made him famous, did most of his writing right here in Maine, in the little town of Norway. He spends some time every year in Portland, too, and thinks it is about as fine a city as there is on the map.

The secret of how he got into the writing game he revealed to me when I put this question to him:

"How did you start writing stories?" "I began to write stories," he replied, "because the price of pork and beans made it necessary. I just got hungry enough, which is a good thing for beginners. I was in New York and I knew Jeff Handley, a red-haired reporter on a newspaper there. I would pound out stuff on the typewriter and Jeff would come home and look my stuff over and say it was rotten, which it was, and make me go ahead doing more of it."

"Finally, under the sting of his irony I wrote a story and managed to sell it to Frank Munsey. It was about British soldiers. They told me and they wanted to read about British soldiers, but that was all I knew to write about, so I went on writing about British soldiers. My first book, Rung Ho, was really a sort of glorified short story. That is it began as a short story and turned into a book."

"I never began really to write, however, until I got to Maine—to my home in Norway. Everybody is so dashed independent in Maine, so friendly, so natural. Why I never knew what life was until I sat on a curbside in Norway and swapped yarns with a banker."

"I was a citizen of Great Britain until nine years ago when I became an American—likewise a resident in the town of Norway, Maine. I now talk—as you observe—a jargon mixture of Mark Twain, Ring Lardner, down-cut Yankee and Shakespeare. But all the time I go on writing English. I consider America the most delightful and comfortable country in the world. The truth is, however, it is much too comfortable. A soft man gets soft on his feet and effeminate, and I have to run away once in a while—go off to wild places where I can rough it and learn to sympathize with the other fellow."

I asked him what he considered an ideal life.

"That's easy," he said, "a yacht large enough to go around the world in with an all-American crew. I should like to make such a yacht a sort of floating headquarters, stopping off where I pleased for as long as I pleased and always drifting back to the yacht to write stories of the adventures I had along the way. Not having $60,000 to buy the yacht, nor $40,000 a year necessary to keep the yacht up with after it was bought, I am getting as much of a substitute for that life as possible."

"I have lived in India, Africa—I've chopped ice off a ship's rigging in the arctic regions—here and there wherever adventure calls me, I go. I live intensely in my experiences and before I write a book gets written. My new book, The Eye of Zeitoon, is about Armenia, one of the most wonderful subjects a writer could choose. The people are brave, adventurous and really very little known as a nationality. In fact, I like them so well I am sailing soon to go directly back to them. So it will be some time before I am back in my little town in Maine."

Silver Leaf Maple Growth

Julian Brown set out a silver leaf maple at his home on Danforth street June 2, 1900. The tree was of nursery stock and bought of D. S. Sanborn and its circumference was 14 1/2 inches or about 4 1/4 inches in diameter. It has measured it each spring with the following results:

1900—14 1/2 inches	1911—61 inches
1901—18 1/2 inches	1912—66 inches
1902—22 1/2 inches	1913—71 inches
1903—27 1/2 inches	1914—74 inches
1904—32 inches	1915—78 inches
1905—36 inches	1916—82 inches
1906—40 1/2 inches	1917—86 inches
1907—44 inches	1918—90 inches
1908—48 inches	1919—93 inches
1909—52 inches	1920—96 inches
1910—56 inches

This shows an average growth in excess of 4 inches in circumference for the twenty years. The diameter is now 32 inches or 2 feet 8 inches.

An Ancient Eastern Argus

A copy of the Weekly Eastern Argus of May 28, 1839 was handed to us by Mrs. George A. Brooks. It was found among other old papers in her home and it is the words: "Preserve this" written in ink and the name of W. C. Whitney to whom it was evidently sent.

It is a good specimen of a newspaper 81 years ago and was published by Holden & Appleton at No. 1 Union street, Portland and was then 36 years old and looks prosperous and claims the distinction of being "Printers to the State and Publishers of the Laws of the U. S." for $2.00 per year; the Tri-Weekly was $4.00 and the Daily was $6.00.

The Northeastern Boundary settlement was under discussion in the editorial column. One of the marriage notices is a little out of the usual and was as follows: "In Guilford, Mr. James Dennis, a revolutionary pensioner to Miss Unice Dennis, his former wife, after a cruel and distressing divorce of more than two years."

Among the deaths was: "In Norway, Mrs. Martha Millett in the 72nd year of her age." The paper contained a wealth of legal advertising, especially announcement of taxes by the collectors. J. B. Osgood was deputy sheriff and coroner at Fryeburg, also collector of taxes.

Arthur Tracy, of Beal street, who is employed in the Novelty Turning Mill, lost the buildings on his farm in Greenwood the first of last week by fire. No one has lived on the farm for three years, so the cause is unknown. Mr. Tracy had quite a lot of furniture, a set of new double harness and seven tons of hay. There was a small amount of insurance.

Millettville and Crockett Ridge Foster Jackson has sold one of his work horses.

Harry Millett traded a cow with Levi Richardson for a cow and calf last week. Florence Westleigh has begun work for Mrs. S. I. Jackson.

CHARITY

Vouchsafe, my Muse, an inspiration lend,
My lyre attune for I of love would sing:
Thou' not to Venus please I'd touch the string:
All sentiment and passions such as these
This sacred and religious cause bring;
From heart of God our primal cause and end,
The principle enlivening the soul,
The master force with which God doth endow
The angels who His goodness e'er extol
And teach men who wait in faith the hour
They'll rest forever in love divine—the goal.
—FATHER CASSIDY.

GIVE US PEACE

(Da Pacem, Domine!)

Give us, O Lord, of all Thy gifts the best,
Respite from sorrows all, of every woe,
Relief from wind and storm of life distress,
Vouchsafe us peace from hate, from hateful foe,
Thy goodness make us more and more to know
That knowing Thee, more like to Thee we grow,
And feel we live with Thee in friendship bliss!
Give us sweet peace—a sweet accord with Thee,
Our will make one with Thine in closest bond,
Admire our hearts with Thine and charity
For all mankind—for all Thy children fond,
Look down upon us kindly, tenderly,
Thy peace give here and in the life beyond.
—FATHER CASSIDY.

PLANT GARDEN AND GET PROFIT

This is the year for the small farmer to make money. It will be almost impossible to hire help at the figures that will repay the farmer, but the man with a small farm can raise certain crops and be sure of a good return.

There is no possibility of a decrease in the cost of farm produce until there is a return to the farm by some of those who have been tempted away from it by big wages. Potatoes at from $3 a bushel up, and other things in proportion will well repay the man who has a good farm.

Care should be taken in selecting crops, and only such as will guarantee a seasonably sure harvest should be cultivated. Sometimes the farmer is inclined to think that he is not making as much money as he could if he sold his farm and went to work for wages.

But he forgets that the man in the village or city, who is drawing the big wages, is more than likely to spend those wages for the living expenses of himself and family, and that at the end of the year he cannot show as much money saved as can the man on the farm.

Farmers forget to allow cash value for the vegetables, meat and fruit, raised on the farm and consumed by the family.—T. J. Franklin, N. H.

USE THE INTELLIGENCE COLUMN

Few people realize how much benefit they could get out of the Intelligence Column in their home newspapers, if they would work them for all they are worth. Almost everyone has some little exigency come along quite frequently that could be helped by using one of the classified ad columns in the Advertiser.

Something is wanted, and you don't know where to look for it. But some one who reads the Advertiser would like what you have to offer.

One family will have a room that it could let. Another would like to take in a boarder. Someone else would like to sell an old piece of furniture, and get something new. Merchants and farmers and manufacturers are constantly needing help.

The insertion of an ad in the Intelligence Column would in a majority of cases bring a chance to let the room, find the boarder, sell the furniture, or get the help, etc.

A great many people realize this perfectly, but they let such matters drift along and miss chances to make favorable trades that could be had just as well as not. If the people would find that they bring results, and are worth more than they cost.

Paint and Varnish

Spring is here and also cleaning and painting comes with it. You will need paint and varnish to make everything look nice and clean. But you must have good paint and varnish to do it.

We sell Bay State Paint for buildings, inside and outside, for barns, outbuildings, roofs, etc. This is a No. 1 grade of Paint made from the best of materials. (Proportions adjusted by experience and scientific adaptation to New England conditions). Bay State Paint will cover about twenty-five percent more than ordinary paint mixed by hand.

Chi-namel Varnishes are the Quality Finish for everything in the home. One test of Chi-namel Finishes upon your floors, woodwork or furniture will confirm their sheer merit, which has earned their enormous sale at home and abroad since their introduction fifteen years ago. They are the easiest for amateur or professional painters to apply, because they are self-leveling, hence leave no laps or brush marks. Chi-namel Varnishes never chip, crack or show white scratches and never show heel marks. Chi-namel is the easiest compound to do graining with on the market.

TOO MUCH LUXURY

American people are suffering from a peculiar disease, an insatiable craving for the luxuries of life. Time was when if we had a good home, plenty to eat, and to wear, and means of recreation and enjoyment, we were contented and happy. But not now. The more we get the more we want, and the more we want the more feverish our efforts to get it.

We never have enough—a never satisfied. If our neighbor has a car, we long for one a little better. If Jones has a house of beauty, Smith wants one of grandeur and magnificence. If Mrs. Smith is at the head of the social whirl, Mrs. Jones is not satisfied until she has supplanted her. If one man is termed our leading citizen, a dozen others will aspire to the honor.

An abundance of the necessities of life is not enough. We must have the luxuries, both for our own pleasure and to outshine other people. And the list of life's luxuries is so long and so varied that no man or woman has ever been known to reach the end. Millions of people forego many of the necessities of life in order to bask in the limelight of luxury. They are lavish in adorning their persons and their surroundings at the expense of their stomachs. They enjoy the tinsel of life and endure the privations necessary in order to satisfy their vanity.

The age of sanity is disappearing. That of frivolity is here. Modern day luxury is considered a blessing. In reality it is more of a curse, because we do not realize when economy ends and extravagance begins.

Agricultural interests of Maine will take an active part in the program of the newly organized State Chamber of Commerce and Agricultural League, and Bertrand G. McIntire of Norway, chairman, has named one director from each of the 16 counties of Maine to serve on the Agricultural Directorate of the big State-wide organization. The directors of this Agricultural Directorate will meet for the first time at Augusta, Tuesday, May 11, when a general meeting of all directors will precede a big general meeting to formulate a program for the industrial, agricultural and commercial development of Maine.

The governor of New Hampshire claimed the troubled waters when he said, "I am opposed to daylight saving because it causes discontent with a large and important part of our people," a reasonable appeal. It would make no difference to him personally one way or the other he added. We call it a fair and rather wise suggestion.

Frankly saying that there are those pretty near home who favor the one hour ahead plan, there will be a lot who will change and come to feel that it will make much difference to them personally after all.

It is understood a well known local player will handle affairs.

C. W. Luna of Stoughton, Mass., is enroute for East Stoughton. For the past dozen years he stops at Keywaden and fishes the ponds and brooks in that vicinity. We went with him several times last season as also did a minister and captured good strings of trout, salmon and eel.

SIX MAINE SCHOOLS

The people of Maine should remember that six educational institutions in this state will profit to the extent of $1,800,000 if the Interchurch drive, now in progress, is successful," said State Executive Secretary, Adelbert J. Brooks in a statement issued today.

These facts have been brought several times to public notice in the various columns of this paper. But the public does not seem to have grasped the importance. Bates at Lewiston; Colby at Waterville; Hebron Academy, Coburn Classical Institute at Pittsfield; Higgins Classical Institute at Houlton, all come in for a large share of the Baptist budget.

The movement to wear overalls to save clothing is agitating, and in some places it is reaching the bad stage. This is proper when the wearers really wear clothing while engaged in work. But if they buy them, put them on for a parade and throw them aside without wearing them till they are only fit for the rag bag, they are doing the real workers wrong. Because the demand will make scarce, and raise the price on an article of clothing that many kinds of work and workmen actually demand.

Carl H. Turner, assistant manager of the community chautauqua, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Norway and South Paris Chautauqua Association held at the store of Eastman & Andrews, South Paris, Tuesday afternoon.

An election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Pres.—Eugene N. Swett, Norway.

Vice-presidents: Albert D. Park, Nelson G. Elder, George P. Eastman, all of South Paris.

Treas.—Philip P. Stone, Norway.

Trusts—Arthur E. Forbes, South Paris.

It was voted to hold a get-together and serve a supper on some date in June.

Local conditions having a bearing on the propriety of presenting the regular Chautauqua program Sunday was discussed. Mr. Turner stated in this instance arrangements could be made to carry the program over until Monday, provided union religious service could be held in the tent as a part of the Chautauqua spirit Sunday afternoon and evening. He suggested the local ministers conduct the services with a union choir or chorus. This would be open to the public without cost and the Chautauqua tickets would be required or accepted. The Association accepted this plan. Therefore the Chautauqua will commence Wednesday, July 14th, and close Monday night, July 19th. A committee will be chosen by Pres. Swett to arrange the Sunday program.

As the high cost of living has touched the entertainment field, Mr. Turner stated an advance in single admissions will be necessary but the course tickets remain as last year. With this new arrangement many dollars can be saved in purchase of course tickets, although a loss may be felt at the box office.

A vote of thanks was given Mr. Turner for his personal interest and for many accommodations tendered the local association since its organization.

The assistant manager briefly outlined the program and the five entertainments to be presented are worthy of comment here.

One of the special features is the Aeolian String Choir, composed of six attractive young ladies.

The Madrigals, an accomplished trio of artists, who will present a program of music, including Swiss bell ringing, monologue and song.

Percy Allen, an English traveler, will tell about the French people and the future of that devastated country. Mr. Allen has an intimate knowledge of the French people. He illustrates with beautiful colored slides upon the screen, not only of the France of today, but the old ante bellum France of song and story.

Then there will be a play, a real play—"Polly of the Circus"—with nine Broadway professionals especially selected and four special sets of scenery.

Some local people have seen the Venetian Trio and they say it is good. They are a group of serenaders, who will sing to the accompaniment of the guitar and piano-accompanist.

The Beacon Concert Company is composed of four talented artists.

John Tobin will give a lecture recital and illustrate his work by remarkable selections on the piano.

Maude Willis, one of the artists, is an accomplished reader and one of the three best in the country.

Then there will be an address—"The Goose that Laid the Golden Egg"—by a genial, witty, satirical Irishman, Alexander Cairns, a clergyman who, when at home, preaches at Newark, N. J.

Louise McIntire, who is employed by the State Board of Health conducting health schools throughout the state will lecture on the public health.

Another lecture will be by Dr. E. E. Vines of Kansas City, who has traveled a million miles in this and other countries.

It is planned to make the juvenile branch of the Chautauqua bigger and better than ever before. A great toy shop pageant is planned; a marionette parade; and an Indian campfire supper with new games and stories.

Oscar I. Pitts

Oscar I. Pitts of South Paris died Friday night at the Augusta State Hospital, to which he was taken some weeks ago. Some time last year Mr. Pitts suffered a shock from which he has never entirely recovered, although he was out of bed.

He was a blacksmith, and had worked at that trade in Bethel, Norway, and other places. He had resided in South Paris several years. He leaves a son, Harry Pitts, who is employed on the state farm in Bridgewater, Mass. The remains came to South Paris Monday for burial beside his wife in Riverside Cemetery, with a prayer service at the grave. Mr. Pitts was 64 years of age.

Building and Loan Association Meeting

Some of the preliminary work has been done regarding by-laws, and this meeting will develop a plan of action. Points well worth knowing. This movement is not wholly a financial investment to share holders, but a live community proposition and a direct benefit to all.

Rev. C. G. Miller will give the Memorial sermon before the members of Wm. K. Kimball Post, G. A. R., and Ladies' Circle Sunday morning, May 30th, at the Universalist church. The Aeolian quartet will furnish the music.

Mrs. Cora S. Briggs resumed her duties as organist at the Congregational church Sunday morning, after an absence of several weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. C. Webber Areson of Boston were week end guests of Mrs. Areson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stuart.

Paris High school team will play Mexico High school at Mexico next Saturday afternoon. It is expected the roads will be in condition for a cross-country trip.

A stereopticon lecture on birds was given at the Brick school Tuesday evening and well attended. This entertainment was one in a series given by the students to raise money to repair the building. More than thirty dollars has been secured to date by the sale of tickets for these low price entertainments.

Reports of department work were given and committees for the coming convention were appointed. The Oxford County W. C. T. U. Convention will meet here on May 25, when Mrs. Gertrude Savens Leavitt will be the speaker.

INDUSTRIAL USES OF THE POTATO

The Maine Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the William A. Martin of Houlton, Thomas Thair of Presque Isle and John Watson of Houl- ton, all deceased, has during the past 20 years given considerable attention to find- ing industrial uses, other than starch manufacture, for the surplus potato crop of Maine.

Potatoes contain from 75 to 80 parts by weight of water. From 15 to occa- sionally as much as 25 parts by weight is starch. The other ingredients while having food value are not industrially utilized. Whether used as a food or for industrial purposes it is the starch content that gives economic value to the potato. Methods of potato cul- ture, fertilization, and potato breeding have for their ultimate goal the production of more starch per acre. It is import- ant from either the food or industrial point of view whether the increased yield of starch per acre is accomplished by larger yields or by increased starch con- tent of the tubers.

Other than being used in their fresh condition as food for man or stock there are 7 distinct industrial uses to which the potato is adapted. Two of these, po- tato flour and dried (dehydrated) po- tatoes became prominent during the war. Potato flour from the entire dried and ground potato with the exception of the skin. A bushel (60 pounds) of po- tatoes will make 12 pounds of flour. Only sound stock can be used for flour making but the potatoes do not need to be of the No. 1 Federal grade. It contains all of the proteins and mineral matters of the raw potato, and hence is a very different product from dried potato starch. Pot- to flour is used, particularly in Europe, for mixing with other flours in bread making. It is also used in making cake, soups and similar preparations. The ad- dition of 5 per cent. of potato flour to wheat is claimed to improve the flavor of bread and make it retain its fresh- ness longer. As potato flour has a great- er water holding capacity than wheat flour, its addition makes it possible for bakers to obtain a larger number of loaves from a given weight of the mixed flours. There was, however, only a limited demand for potato flour under war conditions and still less since the armis- tice.

During the war large quantities of dried or dehydrated potatoes were used by the army. Their preparation began in Aroostook County for sale to the British army before America entered the war. And while the demand was ac- celerated in the war our army used large amounts of dried potatoes. The elimi- nation of loss from decay and frost, the marked reduction in bulk and weight making transportation and storage easi- er, as well as ease of preparation for the table, are among the advantages of de- hydration. The manufacturing process is more expensive than that involved in making flour. The fresh potatoes are run through a washing and peeling ma- chine and then carried on a "sorting belt" where unsuitable stock is removed by hand. The cleaned and pared po- tatoes are either sliced, parboiled and dried in a current of warm air, or else they are steamed, "riced" by forcing through small holes, and dried.

Potato flour and dried potatoes contain all of the constituents of the fresh pro- duct.

Lactic acid as used in tanning leather, in dyeing and printing calico and in foods and beverages can be made from potatoes and is so used in Germany on a large scale. But in this country most of the lactic acid is made from vegetable ivory waste and from corn meal.

It takes 5 pounds of potatoes to pro- duce a pound of potato flour. If it cost nothing to dry and grind the potatoes a pound of flour would cost 10 cents with potatoes at a little over $3 a barrel. And the cost of manufacture doubles that. With fine grade wheat flour to compete dried potatoes were sold at 20 cents a pound wholesale at the factory (which would mean 25 to 30 cents a pound by the time they reached the consumer) the return to the grower of the potatoes would not equal the cost of growing them. The potato cannot compete with the corn plant as raw material for lactic acid manufacture. Nor can it with molasses even in the present sugar shortage and consequent high price of edible molasses. An acre of corn will yield 50 bushels of corn with less care and at half the cost of 200 bushels of potatoes. The 50 bushels of corn will carry as many pounds of dry matter as the 200 bushels of potatoes. In countries where Indian corn cannot be grown potatoes have an industrial opor- tunity.

There will always be a limited demand for potato flour and for dehydrated po- tatoes for food. It is more than pos- sible that an increased market could be developed for these materials in our large cities. For there the costs of transpor- tation, storage, and distribution, and the losses from decay, frost, and bruises, so add to the price of potatoes to the con- sumer as to make them in their fresh condition, more or less prohibitive.

For many food uses dehydrated potatoes can, to quite an extent, be substituted for the tuber itself.

Bird Lecture

Last Saturday was a great day for the Grange. A good delegation from Nor- way and Bryant's Pond were present and the hall full. The afternoon for the open program was crowded full. Mr. Bab, State secretary of the Horticultural So- ciety, was present with his bird lecture. A bit of explanation seems necessary. Twice before he had attempted to give this illustrated lecture, but something had happened to prevent. This time it seemed to be a sure thing, but after the justing the curtain and trying the lantern for several minutes, they discovered that there was a broken lens. He attempted to give a lecture without and had got well started, but the disappointment of the picture was a little more than chil- dren—grown-ups too—could bear, when some bore the information that there was a lantern at the Centennial Hall. Af- ter some delay this was brought and the bird pictures were displayed. The school children, who had a special invi- tation and sang two bird choruses were much delighted with the pictures. There were about numbers on the program all about birds. Piano solos by Olga Mc- Keen, Mrs. Grover, and duet by Olga Mc- Keen and Edith Stevens, singing songs by a quartette, readings by Emily Tuell.

CITY OR COUNTRY

In every country town, in every farm- ing community, we find young men who are pining for the gay life and the high- er wages of the great cities. In every city we find men of mature years, heads of families, who would give anything to get back to the sanity and purity of coun- try life—but they cannot. And there you have the situation in a few words.

The young man in the country store, or the bank, or the blacksmith shop, or on the farm, reads of the high wages that are being paid in the cities. They seem fabulous compared with his more modest earnings in the country. His be- liefs are fired with a desire to coin money, breaks his home ties, and joins the mil- lion of toilers in the maelstrom of marts of commerce. But once there he is soon disillusioned. He finds that his wages are perhaps double or treble what they were in the home town or on the farm. He also finds that his expenses are not only doubled or trebled, but are four or five times as heavy.

If his room is sanitary, though modest, he will pay from $4 to $6 a week for it. His meals, if he is a light eater, will cost him from $10 to $13 per week. If the Lord has blessed him with a healthy ap- petite, only the Lord knows what they will cost him—they vary from $1 to $3 in any respectable restaurant per meal—or $3 to $5 per day—or $21 to $33 per week, all according to what he eats. For a shave each day he will pay 25c or 35c, and a hair cut will relieve him of 50 to 75 cents. His laundry bill comes high, his clothing is frightfully expensive and he can pay $15 or $25 for a pair of shoes. And he must dress up to his part or get left in the shuffle. Then a show will touch him up to the extent of $2 to $5, and he pays car fare about every time he turns around.

If he gets married his troubles begin in real earnest. The furniture for his little four room flat will cost him from $500 to $1,000, and the flat himself will squeeze him of $30 to $75 a month. Then the grocer and the butcher and the baker will cheerfully come in for their share. There is only one way in which he can beat the profiteers and other sharks in the great cities—the country will bury him free of charge if he dies a pauper. It is this class of men in the cities who would give an arm to get back to the country again. But they have families, their money goes as fast as it comes, and they seldom get enough ahead for a decent vacation, to say noth- ing of the expense of moving and es- tablishing themselves in business in the God-given freedom of the country. They are anchored to a life of toil and drudg- ery, with no hope for the future, and must remain anchored until death severs the chains. Fortunes are made in the large cities, it is true, but they are made by men who have money with which to make more money. There are a few notable exceptions to this rule, but this is the story of ninety-nine out of every hundred who chase the rainbow of city life.

At home the young man has individual- ity and is a free agent. He is of some consequence in his own community. In the city he is but a little cog in a great wheel that grinds out greater wealth for some certain class of industry. He is a nobody, is unknown, and no one cares whether he goes up or down.

Unless you are endowed with an ex- traordinary amount of brains and busi- ness acumen, your best opportunity is right here in this community, where every one knows you, and where they respect you for what you are.

NUMERAL SYSTEM

The Boston Post Office has introduced a numeral system of addressing mail in- tended for delivery in the Boston Post- al District. This system is arousing con- siderable interest throughout the country. All that is required is simply the addi- tion of the postal station number to the name of the office. This number can be obtained from correspondents whose mail is delivered through the Boston Post Office or any of the seventy-four delivery stations and branches.

The numeral plan was adopted with the purpose in view of furnishing postal employees with a key number which would indicate the proper office of deliv- ery. The Boston Postal District covers an area of 232 square miles and embraces within its limits 23 cities and towns.

The numeral plan will be an import- ant factor in eliminating multiple hand- lings and consequent delays to mail that at the present time occur through failure of correspondents to furnish complete addresses. The plan does not provide for the discontinuance of the name of any local station or branch, or change in the form of the address in any other manner. It simply involves the addition of the number to the address, thus: Mr. John Doe, 5 Blank Street, Boston, 9, Mass.

Readers of this paper will secure earli- er deliveries of their mail if they will immediately ascertain from their Boston correspondents their correct numeral and include it in the address, in the manner suggested above.

Target Practice Results in Death
Ellsworth J. Evans, the 11 year old son of Elmer E. Evans of Standish, died Friday night at a lumber camp here as the result of being accidentally shot on that day during target practice in which several were taking part. Allie Wilcox of Standish, 15 years old, was shooting at a cap which had been thrown into the air by Elmer Evans, the dead boy's father, when members of the party saw young Evans fall immediately after the rifle was discharged.

The bullet entered the Evans boy's head just back of the ear, and he lived but a short time. Dr. H. L. Barlett, medical examiner for Oxford County, was notified, and after investigation at the camp pronounced death was due to accidental causes. The body was taken to undertaking rooms in Bridgton, and will later be taken to West Buxton, where burial will take place.

Mr. Evans, the father of the dead boy, conducts a boarding house for the wood-choppers, who are cutting timber at a camp here for Walter Morrill of Woodford. Many of the men have their families with them, and the Evans boy and the Wilcox boy were among the children in the camp. Just how the mishap occurred is a mystery, as all present were looking at the cap to see whether the boy could put a bullet through it.

NEPONSET BOARD

DO IT YOURSELF

It's a mighty hard thing to get a builder to do a small job these days. The housing shortage is so great that they all have big contracts on hand. But if you need a room refinished or a new one made out of some unused space, you can do it yourself with Neponset Board.

Neponset is a tough, flexible board finished with a quartered oak effect on one side and a light tan effect on the other. Both sides are thoroughly waterproofed. If you wish to paint it any other color, it takes paint, beautifully and economically.

Come in today and let us demonstrate to you some of the varied uses to which Neponset Board can be put and show you how simple and satisfactory it is to use in the home and office.

BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Someone asks if Liberty Bonds will ever again be worth face value. If any one doubts it let him worry some over the face value of his cash money in his pockets for when these Liberty Bonds come due Uncle Sam is pledged to produce face value for them. We suspect the time will come when the bonds will be selling above par and then these days of cheap Liberty Bonds will be forgotten. Meantime, that is not much help to an unfortunate who is forced by circumstances to part with a bond at a considerable loss. The benefits are going to be reaped by those who buy the Liberty Bonds now when bond quotations are at a surprisingly low ebb. Hang on if you can. Buy more if you can. The bonds are as good as ever and even better than that.

THE OLD THING PASSES

Houses! Houses!! Who'll build the houses!!! Fashions change. In the beginning people built the houses and made the homes they were to occupy. This obtained largely up to the civil war. Then came what is now known as "The Commercial Age." "Capital" as a rule built the houses, and the working people' instead of building, largely rented their houses. After the world war another change is taking place. Labor is largely compensated. Labor needs houses and up-to-date houses. Would it not be better instead of living in a way their prosperity rejects, and asking to capital to build houses which under the present conditions the rents for compensation would be almost prohibitive, they do as in the beginning build and own their own houses, settle down and in some measure help to subside this spirit of unrest and discontent. Make this an age of "Labor dependent on its fruits."

"The only good fly is a dead fly, and the best fly is the fly that never was born." Commence to exterminate the fly at once. The early fly makes his appearance with the first warm days. Speaking of the danger caused by flies as carriers of disease, they are not only dangerous for transmitting tubercular germs, but they may carry germs of typhoid fever and cholera.

It is reported that some farmers are not going to raise any more this year than they need for themselves. If more can be raised the man who refuses to do it is very foolish. There is no doubt that farm products will command as high, if not a higher price next fall than they did last year. The man who has something to sell will find some good money coming in very easily and conveniently for the necessities of life. Farmers do have some use for ready cash, although they are the most independent class of people in this country. When the farmer lacks for food the rest of the people starve.

At Norway Opera House

The Urban Stock Company which is to be at Norway opera house, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week comes highly recommended. It is one of the Klark-Urban shows but is the Urban Stock Company the managers feel that they have a combination of plays and players to surpass their former efforts.

Their list of plays include "The Woman in Room 13" one of the latest New York successes, "After Office Hours" a problem play of romance, "The Dummy" a detective comedy and "A Man's Game" from the famous novel by Jack London. In their list of plays there is not one that has ever before been produced at popular prices.

Will be opening play on Thursday night will be the sensational melodramatic success, "The Woman in Room 13." It has all the thrills, the mystery, the suspense, and the electrifying surprises that have made melodrama the most popular form of theatrical entertainment. It is a pure melodrama swift and exciting but it carries also a theme of extraordinary interest to men and women. The Urban Stock Company will present an entire change of play each night with vaudeville between the acts. Pre-war prices, 25c, 50c and 50c. Tickets on sale at Stone's Drug Store.
